Chicago/Turabian Style Bibliographic Entries

The bibliography contains the same basic information that is included in the endnotes or footnotes. It is arranged in an alphabetical listing of the sources used in the paper and formatted differently from footnotes/endnotes. A few guidelines to remember for bibliographies are as follows:

- The first line of the entry starts at the left margin; subsequent lines are indented five spaces.
- Invert author’s names and arrange all sources in alphabetical order. Authorless works are alphabetized by their titles, excluding the articles a, an, and the.
- Single space the individual entries, but double space between entries.
- ELECTRONIC DATABASE SOURCE NOTE: Search Page URL address should be referenced in the bibliography.

A few examples of Chicago/Turabian style bibliography:

Book, one author

Book, two authors

An edited collection

Journal article

Article from online database

Article in reference database

Signed Article in Reference Book

Scholarly website

Online Book

Film

A note about periodicals:

Journals with continuous paging number an entire year worth of journals consecutively. When citing such a source, it is not necessary to include issue number. The inclusion of the volume number is sufficient.

For journals with non-continuous paging, meaning each issue begins with page 1, the issue number should be given in the citation, following the volume number. Example:

The formats given in this handout are from Robert Perrin’s Pocket Guide to the Chicago Manual of Style. Appendix D, pages 136-146, discusses the bibliographic form in detail.